Students select fifteen courses in two or more concentrations to create their own individualized degrees that meet their interests, abilities and goals. Five of the concentration courses may be transferred from Orange.

(15 credits)

Up to thirteen other Orange courses will transfer as elective credits. (39 credits)

College Writing I and II will also transfer. (6 credits)

Popular areas of concentration are: business, communications, psychology, history, information systems, English, paralegal, criminal justice and fine arts.

This major has a unique set of six interdisciplinary core courses that students take at Marist: Personal History, Self, Society and Institutions, Self, Story and Culture, Self, Nature and History, Capping seminar and World Views and Values. These courses tie student goals with contemporary issues and include skills in utilizing the Internet and World Wide Web.

The Integrative Major is offered at all three Marist locations: Poughkeepsie and Goshen in the evenings, and Fishkill on Saturdays in an accelerated format.

Integrative Major students have completed graduate school in law, medicine, and social work, and found careers in a variety of occupations.

Articulation Agreement executed in 2002.
